

Great American Eclipse 2017
Educator Workshop – May 20, 9:00 AM – 3:00 PM
Ruth Patrick Science Education Center – USC Aiken

Are you preparing for the Total Solar Eclipse on August 21, 2017? Will you have opportunity to share information about the eclipse with others? Would you like to have appropriate background information and more than $80 worth of educational supplies? If your answer to any of these questions is “yes,” then we have a great opportunity for you! We will conduct a full-day educator workshop on Saturday, May 20, 2017 for 25 informal and formal educators in our region. This is intended to be a “train the trainer” workshop that will promote understanding of the Earth-Moon-Sun system. Through this dynamic, hands-on workshop, you will increase your awareness and understanding of the total solar eclipse to occur on 8/21/17 and receive educational resources to inform and inspire others about eclipses. Many of the activities and lessons shared during the workshop will address state science and mathematics standards, making the impact of this training extend far beyond the Great American Solar Eclipse of 2017!
